Crist in Good Position to Reclaim Governorship

Raleigh, N.C.-- Florida voters are generally favorable to the idea of former Republican Governor Charlie Crist completing his partisan transformation and becoming a Democrat. And despite an unimpressive even favorability rating at 41\%, Crist benefits from voters’ deep dissatisfaction with Governor Rick Scott in order to lead his successor in a potential 2014 matchup $44 \%$ to $41 \%$.

In this hypothetical race, the theoretically newly minted Democrat would enjoy at least as much support from his own party as Scott would from his own. This is enough for Crist to overcome Scott's slight edge among independents, $43 \%$ to $40 \%$. That figure represents a large shift towards Scott among independents. When PPP last polled Florida in June, Scott was tested in a horserace against state Senate Minority Leader Nan Rich, who, despite garnering only $14 \%$ name recognition, defeated Scott by 12 points, including a 14 -point advantage among independents.

This new independent lean towards Scott has given some buoyancy to his numbers, which were decidedly underwater in June. In that survey, independents disapproved of Scott by a 34 -point margin, contributing to his overall rating of -25 . This time around, with independents more on his side, however, his job rating has risen to -12, at $39 \%$ to 51\%.
"These are some of the best poll numbers we've found for Rick Scott since he took office," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "Republicans are starting to unify around him more, and he's seen improvement with independents as well."

LeBron James' first championship ring has done nothing to improve his standing with Floridians, as his $32 \%$ to $19 \%$ favorability rating has remained completely unchanged over the last two months. In the same vein, $32 \%$ of respondents expressed good feelings about the Heat's championship, beating out those unhappy at $9 \%$, but running substantially behind "don't care" at 59\%. Chick-fil-A would have nothing to fear at the ballot box in Florida, enjoying a 34-point favorable margin.

PPP surveyed 871 Florida voters from July $26^{\text {th }}$ to $29^{\text {th }}$. The margin of error for the survey is $+/-3.3 \%$. This poll was not paid for or authorized by any campaign or political organization. PPP surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
