Tillis, Brannon Tied in North Carolina GOP Senate Primary

Raleigh, N.C. – PPP's newest North Carolina poll finds that Thom Tillis' support has declined after a month defined by his gaffes on the campaign trail, and that he's now tied for the Republican Senate nomination with Greg Brannon. Tillis and Brannon are both at 14%, followed by Heather Grant at 11%, Ted Alexander and Mark Harris at 7%, Alex Bradshaw at 6%, Jim Snyder at 4%, and Edward Kryn at 1%. A month ago Tillis led Brannon 20/13.

Tillis drew a lot of attention last month for his comments on Obamacare and the minimum wage, and what he said about those things doesn't play well with the GOP base. On the day he filed Tillis made news by suggesting he didn't think there should be a minimum wage- but even among GOP primary voters only 27% support eliminating it to 56% that would be opposed. More problematic for Tillis could be his statement last week that 'Obamacare is a great idea that can't be paid for.' Only 15% of primary agree with Tillis' sentiment that 'Obamacare is a great idea,' to 78% who say they disagree with it.

The general election for the Senate race continues to look like a toss up, with every potential match up within 2 points one way or the other. The numbers are a slight improvement for Kay Hagan compared to a month ago- she leads Tillis 45/43, Kryn 43/41, and Grant 43/42, she is tied with Bradshaw, Brannon and Harris at 43, and she trails Snyder 43/42 and Alexander 45/43. The issues are starting to set up a little bit better for Hagan as well. There is overwhelming support for the proposed minimum wage hike to $10 an hour that the leading Republicans oppose, 59/33. The GOP candidates have said they think the state should have the right to ban birth control but only 12% of North Carolinians agree with them, compared to 75% who disagree.

"This is the first poll where we've seen any improvement in Kay Hagan's overall situation since September," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "The Republican primary is a mess, and she's doing better in head to heads as the issues in the news work more to her advantage."

PPP surveyed 884 registered voters from March  $6^{th}$  to 9th, including 392 Republican primary voters. The margin of error for the overall survey is  $\pm -3.3\%$ , and for the Republicans it's  $\pm -5.0\%$ . 80% of interviews for the poll were conducted over the phone with 20% interviewed over the internet to reach respondents who don't have landline telephones.
