Alex Sink Still Leads Rick Scott for FL Gov.

Raleigh, N.C. – The divisive Republican gubernatorial primary in Florida has done nothing if it has not made Alex Sink brighter in voters’ eyes. As she waited last night to begin her general-election campaign against a bloodied Rick Scott, she had to feel good about starting out with a seven-point lead and a personal favorability margin 33 points higher than Scott’s.

Sink currently tops Scott, 41-34, with independent Bud Chiles at 8%, and 17% undecided. In PPP’s last poll of the race in July, she led 36-30, with Chiles at 13%.

Sink is among the most popular gubernatorial candidates PPP has polled this year, with a 35-23 favorable margin, versus 24-22 only a month ago. Scott, already at 23-41 in July, is now even less liked than before, at 28-49. While Republicans are down on Sink only 18-30, Democrats give Scott a 12-62 grade. In the tail stretch of the primary, Scott also is favored by Republicans only 44-35, with independents against him, 26-54.

Despite the electorate moving rightward, Sink has become more popular and maintained her lead in the horse race almost entirely by boosting her standing with her own party. Democrats now have a positive view of their nominee, 54-12, versus 33-18 in July. Against Scott, she gets 72% of her own party, versus 62% in July. Scott pulls only 57% of the GOP. While independents now personally like Sink only 32-30, versus 32-15 in July, her nine-point lead over Scott among them has not moved since the previous poll.

“Rick Scott has to hope Bill McCollum supporters forgive him for the negativity of the primary. Right now, Democrats and independents are behind Alex Sink, and Floridians seem ready to elect a Democrat after 12 years of Republican governors,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling.

PPP surveyed 567 likely Florida voters on August 21st and 22nd. The margin of error for the survey is +/-4.1%. Other factors, such as refusal to be interviewed and weighting, may introduce additional error that is more difficult to quantify.

Complete results are attached, and can be found at www.publicpolicypolling.com.
