Governor's Race Looking Close for Fall

Raleigh, N.C. – Regardless of who emerges from next Tuesday's primaries it looks like Illinois will have a competitive race for Governor this fall.

In a poll looking at four of the possible general election match ups incumbent Democrat Pat Quinn trails Jim Ryan by a 42-35 margin and Andy McKenna by a 42-36 spread. Democratic challenger Dan Hynes leads Ryan 40-35 and McKenna 38-36.

It appears Democrats will be in particularly dire straits if Quinn wins nomination for a full term. His approval rating is just 25% with 55% of voters in the state disapproving of him. His own party is evenly divided about him 39/39, and he gets support from just 16% of independents and 9% of Republicans. Hynes does better than Quinn in the head to head match ups because he gets 67-69% of the Democratic vote compared to the incumbent's 60%.

The Republicans are competitive in all four hypothetical match ups because they hold solid leads with independents and are also benefiting from a more unified party. GOP voters are more committed to supporting their party's eventual nominee than Democrats are.

Quinn is the most unpopular of this quartet but the other contenders aren't very well liked either. Hynes' favorability is a 26/24 spread, McKenna's is 20/21, and Ryan's is 30/36.

"With competitive elections for both the Senate and Governor Illinois will be one of the most watched states in the country this fall," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "Republicans have their best opportunities here in more than a decade."

PPP surveyed 1,062 Illinois voters from January 22nd to 25th. The margin of error is +/- 3%. Other factors, such as refusal to be interviewed and weighting, may introduce additional error that is more difficult to quantify.

Complete results are attached and can be found at www.publicpolicypolling.com.
