Casey retains wide leads for re-election

Raleigh, N.C. – With control of the senate up for grabs in 2012, freshman Democrats who claimed their seats in the 2006 Democratic wave are prime targets. However, Bob Casey will likely prove very difficult for the GOP to take down. When PPP last polled Pennsylvania in April, Casey had large leads over all prospective opponents. Since then, nothing has changed.

If Santorum abandons his longshot presidential bid and run for senate, he would be an underdog against Casey. In a rematch with Santorum, Casey leads 48-39 (49-37 in April). Casey leads all others by double digits, topping Murphy 47-35, Gerlach 49-33 (50-32), Corman 51-35 (51-35), Cummings 51-31 (51-32), and Scaringi 47-29(51-28). The extent of Casey's lead is mostly a product of the how unknown the prospective opponent is. Since more Republicans are undecided than Democrats, the contest will likely narrow as Election Day approaches, but Casey starts off with an advantage.

Casey isn't wildly popular, but has a solid 40-32 approval rating. Casey does only fair with his base, rating 56-18, and has trouble with independents who give him a 25-39 rating. Nevertheless, he remains on positive ground thanks to strong crossover support among Republicans with an approval rating of 23-46.

Casey's potential GOP rivals are, aside from former Senator Rick Santorum, unknown. Each is recognized by less than a third of voters. Congressman Tim Murphy is seen most favorably with a 19-14 favorability rating while everyone else is in the red. Murphy is followed by Congressman Jim Gerlach at 11-15, state senator Jake Corman at 9-13, Tea Party activist Lauren Cummings at 5-12, and attorney Marc Scaringi at 4-12.

“Casey starts off in a solid position,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “With Casey garnering significant support among Republicans, it will take a strong opponent to defeat him.”

PPP surveyed 545 Pennsylvania voters from June 30th to July 5th. No interviews were conducted on July 3rd or 4th. The margin of error for the survey is +/-4.2%. This poll was not paid for or authorized by any campaign or political organization. PPP surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews. PPP is a Democratic polling company, but polling expert Nate Silver of the New York Times found that its surveys in 2010 actually exhibited a slight bias toward Republican candidates.
