Texas close if Romney isn't nominated

Raleigh, N.C. – Perhaps the clearest indication of the weakness of the Republican field is their performance in ruby red Texas. Texas wants to be rid of President Obama with only 42% approving of his performance and a 55% majority disapproving. However, it would be a single digit race against any of Obama's perspective Republican opponents. Obama performs weakest against Mitt Romney, trailing 42-50 (49-42 in January). Obama trails native son Ron Paul 40-45, Michele Bachmann 44-47, and Tim Pawlenty 43-44. Obama ties Herman Cain 43-43, and leads Sarah Palin 46-44 (46-47) and Texas Governor Rick Perry 47-45 (45-45).

Bachmann is the most popular Republican contender and the only one in positive territory with a 39-36 favorability rating. She is followed by Romney at 37-43, Cain at 27-33, Pawlenty at 22-37, Paul at 30-46, and Palin at 37-55. Perry is also unpopular with 43% approving and 52% disapproving of his performance. Texans are even less enthusiastic about a Perry candidacy for Presidency with only 33% saying he should run and 59% saying he shouldn't. Republicans do want him to run though, 52-38.

Perry brought national attention upon himself two years ago by hinting about possible Texas secession. Unsurprisingly, secession isn't popular even in Texas. Only 18% of Texans feel that Texas should secede while 71% oppose such a move. Another 11% aren't sure. Support is stronger within the party of Lincoln where 25% back secession. There is clear divide between those who support and oppose secession in their choice for president. In the matchup between Perry and Obama, secessionists support Perry 73-19 while those who want to stay in the US support Obama 56-37.

“Rick Perry may prove to be a strong candidate for President in other places,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “But the home state voters who know him best aren't showing a lot of support for a White House bid.”

PPP surveyed 795 Texas voters from June 25th to 27th. The margin of error for the survey is +/-3.5%. This poll was not paid for or authorized by any campaign or political organization. PPP surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews. PPP is a Democratic polling company, but polling expert Nate Silver of the New York Times found that its surveys in 2010 actually exhibited a slight bias toward Republican candidates.
