Snyder Vulnerable

Raleigh, N.C. – Voters in Arkansas' 2nd Congressional District are down on Barack Obama and the health care plan passed by the House of Representatives last week, and that's leaving seven term Congressman Vic Snyder open to his toughest fight for reelection yet next year.

55% of voters in the district, including 67% of independents, oppose the bill that Snyder voted for last weekend. Just 32% express support for it.

Obama's approval is 41% with 52% of voters disapproving of him. Snyder's not much more popular, with a 42/46 spread.

That has Snyder's position looking pretty tenuous for 2010. He leads a trio of potential opponents for next year by amounts within the margin of error. It's 44-43 over Tim Griffin, 44-42 over Scott Wallace, and 45-42 over David Meeks. The close margins come in spite of the fact that all three of the potential Republican nominees have very low name recognition, with anywhere from 67-78% of voters in the district expressing ambivalence toward them.

“Vic Snyder's situation is pretty emblematic of the perils Democrats face going into 2010,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “His district hasn't been competitive in a long time but his health care vote and Obama's unpopularity with his constituents has put him in a vulnerable position.”

54% of voters in the district have an unfavorable opinion of Congressional Democrats while 48% say the same of Congressional Republicans.

PPP surveyed 400 AR-2 voters from November 11th to 13th. The survey's margin of error is +/-4.9%. Other factors, such as refusal to be interviewed and weighting, may introduce additional error that is more difficult to quantify.

Complete results are attached and can be found at www.publicpolicypolling.com.
