Arizona voters overwhelmingly back gay rights

Raleigh, N.C. – President Obama won't be seeing any backlash in Arizona for his recent declaration of support for gay marriage. 77% of Arizona voters believe gay couples should either be allowed to marry or form civil unions. And support isn't just limited to liberal voters—in addition to 94% support from Democrats, 63% of Republicans and 83% of independents back gay marriages or civil unions.

79% of Hispanics support either gay marriages or civil unions, putting to rest theories suggesting Obama would lose support from the mostly Catholic demographic for his new stance on gay marriage. In addition, 85% of the other racial minorities which make up about 11% of the electorate support either marriage rights or civil unions for gay couples.

But not all is well for Obama in Arizona. Just 32% of Arizonans believe the state will be a swing state in the upcoming general election. At 43%, Democrats aren't too optimistic that Obama will be competitive in a state that has gone Republican 14 out of the last 15 presidential elections. Just 29% of independents believe Arizona will be a swing state.

Hispanics, a demographic Obama must carry if he is to steal Arizona, are similarly skeptical of Arizona's swing-state status at 47%. Only 32% of Obama's key young voters (aged 18 to 29) believe Arizona will be a swing state.

54% of Arizonans have a favorable opinion and 30% an unfavorable view of their capital Phoenix. This isn't much different from the 49% favorability rating the state's largest city received in a national poll released in mid-April. Arizonans like Tucson almost as much (50-27).

The most favorably viewed city in the state is Flagstaff, with 64% seeing it favorably and only 8% unfavorably. The least favorably viewed of the four cities PPP tested is Yuma (31-24).

Paul Babeu, Sheriff of Pinal County and renowned illegal immigration opponent, has a 23% favorability rating among state voters. 34% see him unfavorably. Babeu ended his bid for Congress two weeks ago after admitting an affair with another man.

PPP surveyed 500 Arizona voters from May 17th to 20th. The margin of error for the survey is +/-4.4%. This poll was not paid for or authorized by any campaign or political organization. PPP surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
