OF THE PRESS RELEASE*Brownback very unpopular, trails Davis by 2

Raleigh, N.C. – PPP's newest Kansas poll finds that Sam Brownback has continued to become even more unpopular in the last year, and that he slightly trails his Democratic opponent for reelection. Only 33% of voters in the state approve of the job Brownback is doing, compared to 51% who disapprove. That's down from a 37/52 spread when PPP last polled the state a year ago.

Brownback trails Democratic challenger Paul Davis for reelection by a 42/40 margin. Davis isn't particularly well known- only 41% of voters have an opinion about him one way or the other- so those numbers are more a referendum on Brownback than anything else. Davis leads largely because he is winning 23% of the GOP vote, a large amount of crossover support in this polarized political climate, while only 11% of Democrats plan to vote for Brownback.

"Kansas voters really don't care for Sam Brownback and haven't for some time now," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "That gives them an unusual opportunity this year in a state where they usually don't do too well."

Pat Roberts has seen his net approval rating decline 12 points over the last year, in the wake of news media reports that he spends little time in the state. In February of 2013 we found him on slightly positive ground at a 31/28 spread, but now only 29% of voters approve of him compared to 38% who disapprove. Roberts doesn't appear to be at too much risk of losing his seat to a Democrat though. He leads Chad Taylor 48/32 in a hypothetical contest.

Roberts could be in trouble in the primary though. He starts out with a 49/23 lead over Milton Wolf, but a lot of that is simply a function of name recognition since only 24% of GOP primary voters are familiar with Wolf. And concerns about his lack of attention to the state ring through with Republican voters just as they do the overall electorate- by a 42/34 spread they think Roberts is more focused on being a Washington DC insider than he is in representing Kansas.

PPP surveyed 693 Kansas voters, including 375 Republican primary voters, from February 18th to 20th. The margin of error for the overall survey is +/- 3.7% and for the Republican primary component it's +/-5.1%. 80% of interviews for the poll were conducted over the phone with 20% interviewed over the internet to reach respondents who don't have landline telephones.
