Minnesota split on marriage amendment

Raleigh, N.C. – -PPP's newest poll on the constitutional amendment to ban gay marriage in Minnesota finds it virtually tied, with 48% of voters supporting the ban to 47% who oppose it. In January we found 48/44 support for the ban, while in June we found 49/43 opposition. It looks like a toss up.

Women (52/41), Democrats (78/16), and voters under 45 (50/45) all oppose the ban. Men (55/41), Republicans (80/17), independents (51/42), and seniors (53/40) all support it in greater numbers though.

“It looks like Minnesota’s marriage amendment will go down to the wire,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “Voters in the state are very closely divided in their attitudes about it.”

Minnesota's voter ID amendment looks to be headed for more comfortable passage, although the numbers have tightened up a little bit since our June poll. It leads by 17 points, 56-39, compared to a 24 point lead at 58-34 the last time we polled it. That movement is because Democrats have hardened in their opposition to it, going from being against it just 54/36 to now 72/20. But it retains overwhelming support from Republicans (88/9) and independents (62/33).

Things are looking generally good for Democrats in state level politics. Mark Dayton continues to have solid approval numbers with 48% of voters giving him good marks to 37% who disapprove. That's pretty identical to his 49/36 spread the last time we polled the state. Dayton would lead a generic Republican opponent for reelection by a 51/38 spread. It's impossible to say what the political landscape will look like in 2014 but if Dayton was up this year he'd have an easier time of it than he did in 2008.

Democrats lead the generic state legislative ballot by a 47/44 margin. That's a good deal tighter than June when they had a 48/36 advantage and it's hard to say what that will translate to in terms of the number of seats they pick up this fall.

PPP surveyed 824 likely Minnesota voters on September 10th and 11th. The margin of error for the overall survey is +/-3.4%. This poll was not paid for or authorized by any campaign or political organization. PPP surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
