Daines favored for Baucus' seat

Raleigh, N.C. – Some Democrats, trying to clear the field for John Walsh, are frustrated by John Bohlinger's candidacy for U.S. Senate in Montana, but at this point, it doesn't really matter which one runs against current at-large Rep. Steve Daines next fall—they both are down double digits. Only 37% of voters approve of Daines' job performance, with 42% disapproving, down a net 13 points since PPP last polled the state in June, when it was 41-33. But the partisanship of the electorate, President Obama's 34% approval rating, the toxicity of Obamacare, and both Democrats' low profiles help Daines post a 51-36 lead over Bohlinger and 52-35 over Walsh. In June, Daines had 45% to 49% of the vote against other Democrats.

Part of Daines' lead is name identification. Only 21% of voters are unfamiliar with him, versus 40% for Bohlinger and 53% for Walsh. Because of that, about twice as many Democrats and independents are undecided as Republicans.

The race is already closer in the event Champ Edmunds defeats Daines in the primary, but that looks unlikely. 66% of GOP primary voters prefer Daines to only 7% behind Edmunds. Edmunds is even less well-known than the Democrats, but he leads each by two points (39-37 over Bohlinger and 38-36 over Walsh).

Walsh is not only the favorite of D.C. Democrats but also actual Montana Democrats. Though they know and like Bohlinger better (54-18 favorability spread versus Walsh's 44-14), Walsh has a nominal 39-31 lead over Bohlinger, with Dirk Adams at 3%.

Daines' House seat also has a definite GOP lean in all four matchups PPP tested. The various Republicans have leads of five to 13 points over Democrat John Lewis.

“Steve Daines started out as the favorite in this race,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “The problems with Obamacare, as well as President Obama's general unpopularity, have helped stake him to a larger advantage at this early stage of the campaign.”

PPP surveyed 952 Montana voters, including an oversample of 469 usual Republican primary voters and 381 Democratic primary voters, from November 15th to 17th. The margin of error for the overall survey is +/- 3.2%, +/-4.5% for the GOP sample, and +/-5.0% for the Democratic portion. PPP's surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
