Schweitzer, Racicot make Montana Senate race tight

Raleigh, N.C.- PPP's most recent poll of Montana voters finds a tight Senate race brewing in the Treasure State, especially if former governor Brian Schweitzer throws his hat into the ring. Schweitzer is the most well-known and favorable person in Montana politics, with a 54% approval rating compared to 40% who have an unfavorable view of the former governor. Other popular Montanans include former governor Marc Racicot (43%/37%), State Auditor Monica Lindeen (38%/22%), State Superintendent Denise Juneau (39%/25%), and Congressman Steve Daines (41%/33%). The two Montanans with higher unfavorable ratings were also the least recognized: Corey Stapleton, with a 14%/24% split, and Champ Edmunds, who had just a 4% favorable rating compared to 22% unfavorable.

In the head to head matchups, all of the Republican would find victory over any Democrats besides Schweitzer, with the exceptions of Stapleton and Edmunds who would lose to all three Democrats. Should Schweitzer end up being the Democratic candidate, Montanans would be looking at a pretty tight Senate race in 2014. In a theoretical matchup between Daines and Schweitzer, the former governor would win with 48% compared to 45% for Daines. If Racicot and Schweitzer squared off instead, the Republican would beat Schweitzer by just a single percent, 47% to 46%. In both of these races, Schweitzer would hold a nice lead with independent voters, 50% to 39% against Daines and 46% to 41% against Racicot.

In the Republican primary, Racicot has a pretty solid lead over his main competitor, Daines. Racicot currently holds a 47% to 28% lead over Daines, including over 50% of the vote with moderates and slight conservatives who would vote in the Republican primary.

“The Montana Senate race looks like a toss up if Brian Schweitzer and either of the Republicans’ premier potential candidates run,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling.

PPP surveyed 807 registered voters between June 21-23, 2013, including 340 Republican primary voters. The margin of error was +/- 3.4% statewide, and +/- 5.3% for the Republican primary. This poll was not authorized or paid for by any campaign or political organization. PPP's surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
