Even UNC, NC State Fans Pulling for Duke Tonight

Raleigh, N.C. – 48% of North Carolinians say they're rooting for Duke to win the national championship tonight, compared to 30% who say they aren't pulling for them to win. What might be most interesting is that for all that's made of the rivalry between Duke and UNC and to a much lesser extent Duke and NC State, fans of both the Tar Heels and the Wolfpack say they're rooting for the Devils tonight. State fans say they're pulling for Duke 44/36 and Carolina fans say they're doing so by a 45/40 spread. North Carolinians may be coming together to support Duke tonight but it doesn't mean they're jumping on the bandwagon overall. UNC still leads the state in overall fan loyalty with 30% of voters calling themselves Tar Heel fans to 21% for the Blue Devils, 19% for the Wolfpack, and just 4% for Wake Forest.

Only 31% of North Carolinians think business owners should be allowed to refuse service to gay customers, compared to 56% who say that shouldn't be permitted. Democrats (18/75) are heavily opposed to business owners being able to do that, while Republicans (48/34) are much more closely divided in their favor of it. Independents at 31/56 match the overall statewide numbers.

Last week the General Assembly passed a bill to redraw County Commissioner lines in Wake County, while killing a bill to end religious exemptions for vaccinations. Voters think they took the wrong tack on both issues. Only 12% of voters in the state think the General Assembly should be involved with things like drawing City Council and County Commissioner lines, while 73% think that should be left to the local level. On the other hand only 24% of voters think parents should still be allowed to exempt their children from immunization requirements for religious reasons, compared to 64% who think there should not be an exemption. Democrats (73/15), Republicans (59/31), and independents (57/29) are all in agreement those should not be permitted.

“This pair of issues is another instance where the Republicans in the General Assembly are out of line even with Republican voters in the state,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “On both of these issues the action taken was at odds with how most GOP voters feel about it.”

PPP surveyed 751 registered voters from April 2nd to 5th. The margin of error for the survey is +/- 3.4%. 80% of interviews for the poll were conducted over the phone with 20% interviewed over the internet to reach respondents who don't have landline telephones.
