Raleigh, N.C. – PPP's newest North Carolina poll continues to find a close race for Governor, but Pat McCrory has regained a small lead for the first time since the spring. McCrory's at 44% to 41% for Roy Cooper. McCrory has the slight advantage thanks to a 42/33 edge with independents, and because he has a more unified party with 76% of Republicans behind him to 70% of Democrats who support Cooper.

Although McCrory's horse race numbers have improved, he continues to struggle on the approval front. Only 35% of voters are happy with the job he's doing to 47% who disapprove, making it 26 months in a row now that his approval numbers have been in negative territory. Meanwhile 49% of voters say they have no opinion about Cooper one way or the other, with 27% rating him favorably to 24% with a negative opinion.

It's the same old story in the Senate race- Richard Burr continues to have poor approval numbers but leads the potential Democratic candidates who might oppose him. Burr has just a 29% approval rating, with 40% of voters disapproving of him.

Nevertheless Burr leads the possible Democratic field- it's 42/37 over Heath Shuler, 45/35 over Duane Hall, 45/34 over Deborah Ross, and 46/34 over Chris Rey. Shuler has 35% name recognition, compared to around 20% for the trio of other potential contenders and even if he doesn't run his relative closeness to Burr may indicate the potential for a competitive race once the eventual Democratic nominee does build up some name recognition.

“Pat McCrory and Richard Burr both have the kinds of approval numbers that usually cause politicians to lose,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “The question is whether the Democratic candidates will be strong enough to take advantage of that unpopularity.”

As the General Assembly session dragged on its approval rating got lower and lower. We find just 14% of voters in the state approving of it to 62% who disapprove. Republicans (19/60), independents (13/63), and Democrats (11/63) all give pretty similarly negative reviews to the legislature's work this year.

Public Policy Polling surveyed 1,268 voters from September 24th to 27th. The margin of error for the overall survey is +/-2.8. 80% of participants responded via the phone, while 20% of respondents who did not have landlines conducted the survey over the internet.
