Sports Poll!

Raleigh, N.C. – PPP's annual professional sports poll finds that the NFL continues to be the only professional sport a majority of voters in the country are interested in:

Sport	% Considering Themselves Fans
NFL	55%
MLB	42%
NBA	36%
NASCAR	26%
NHL	22%
Golf	19%
MLS	14%

-There may be a slight warning sign to the NFL within the numbers though. 60% of voters over 45 consider themselves to be NFL fans, while only 48% under 45 consider themselves to be. So the sport could have a hard time sustaining its current level of popularity over time. Football also has the biggest gender gap in fandom of the sports we polled- 64% of men consider themselves to be fans of the league, while only 46% of women do.

-For the most part there aren't a lot of differences along party lines when it comes to which sports people are fans of, with the exception of the NBA. 49% of Democrats consider themselves to be NBA fans, while only 31% of Republicans do. Soccer also has a notable party gap- 19% of Democrats but only 10% of Republicans identify themselves as fans of MLS.

-America is pretty clearly behind the Warriors when it comes to fan allegiances in this year's NBA playoffs. 25% are pulling for them to 16% for the Heat, 14% for the Spurs, 10% for the Cavaliers, 7% for the Thunder, and just 2% for the Raptors. The numbers reflect the growing popularity of the Warriors- when we did a similar poll at this time last year they only edged out the Cavs 19-15 in terms of who people were rooting for. As good as the Warriors have been this year though, only 31% of NBA fans think they could have beaten the 1996 Chicago Bulls, compared to 54% who think Michael Jordan, the indisputable GOAT, would have led his team to victory.

-Kobe Bryant is getting quite a popularity bounce on his way out the door. Last year when we asked people who their favorite NBA player was he got 14%, putting him in third place. Now he leads the list with 27% to 25% for Stephen Curry, and 22% for LeBron James. No one else gets over 5%- it's a pretty clear triumvirate when it comes to the league's most popular players. Curry is the most broadly liked of the group- he has a 66/8 favorability, showing that almost nobody dislikes him. James (60/23 favorability) and Bryant (59/29) are still very popular, but somewhat more divisive than Curry.

Despite Bryant's new found popularity there is broad agreement that it was time for him to retire. 83% think he's leaving at the right time, to only 12% who think he should have come back for another year.

Finally 37% of NBA fans think a sequel to Space Jam should star LeBron James, compared to 26% who think it should be Stephen Curry.

-Among the team still remaining in the NHL playoffs, 20% of fans would like the Penguins to win the Stanley Cup to 10% each for the Predators and Sharks, 9% for the Blues, and 6% for the Lightning. NHL fans are mostly ambivalent toward Commissioner Gary Bettman- 48% have no opinion about him one way or another. Among those who do have one 39% approve of the job he's doing to 13% who disapprove.

-It's a giant mish mash trying to identify either the most popular team or the most popular player in Major League Baseball. 6 different teams poll between 10 and 15% for favorite honors- the Cubs get 15%, the Braves 13%, the Yankees 12%, the Red Sox 11%, and the Royals and Dodgers each 10%. The Mets at 5% and Cardinals at 4% round out the list we tested. It's a similar story with the players- 4 different ones lead the way, all polling within a band of 10-12%. It's Clayton Kershaw at 12%, Kris Bryant at 11%, Bryce Harper and David Ortiz at 10, followed by Mike Trout at 9%, Madison Bumgarner at 8%, Matt Harvey and Buster Posey at 4%, and Andrew McCutchen at 3%.

We get more clarity when it comes to the baseball specific issues we polled about. Instant replay has ceased to really be controversial at all- 82% of fans support it to only 11% who are opposed to it. Last year when we polled on the issue of whether fans would prefer the pitcher batting or the Designated Hitter, we were surprised to find that pitchers hitting won out 55-33. This year the margin in favor of pitchers hitting is even wider at 65/25. Of course this poll was fielding when Bartolo Colon went deep, so that could have created a spike of public opinion in favor of pitchers hitting. We find that 51% of fans think Barry Bonds and Roger Clemens belong in the Hall of Fame compared to only 34% who think they should continue to be excluded- there's a big divide between fans and the writers who vote on that issue. And finally we find that fans are pro-bat flip. 48% approve of them to just 31% who disapprove. There's a big generational divide on the bat flip issue though with young fans pro bat flip by a 79/9 spread and seniors against them 23/43.

-It's been a while since he won anything but Phil Mickelson is still by far the most popular player on the PGA tour. 38% of Golf fans say he's their favorite to 17% for Tiger Woods. No one breaks out of the pack when it comes to all the game's new young stars- Jordan Spieth gets 9%, Rory McIlroy 8%, Jason Day 7%, and Rickie Fowler 5%. Bubba Watson at 5% and Adam Scott at 4% round out the field.

When we did this poll last year and asked who fans thought was the best player in the game McIlroy won by a wide margin, with 38%. Now Spieth narrowly leads with 22% to 21% for Woods (some of these fans apparently haven't watched much golf the last few years), 15% for Day, 14% for Mickelson, and 10% for McIlroy. Almost all of these golfers are broadly popular, having at least +30 net favorability ratings, with the exception of Woods. He's at 56/35 thanks to a large party divide- he's at 66/27 with Democrats, and 40/44 with Republicans.

We also polled on a few other miscellaneous sports issues:

-68% of voters think members of the US Women's National Soccer Team should be paid the same as members of the men's team, to only 17% who disagree with that premise. There's 81/11 support for that from Democrats, 63/22 from independents, and 55/23 from Republicans.

-By an overwhelming margin fans think the suspensions athletes receive for committing acts of domestic violence should be longer than they get for using performance enhancing drugs. 68% consider domestic violence to be the more serious crime, to only 21% who think using PEDs is.

-In sports labor conflicts, 43% of Americans says they generally side with the players compared to just 20% who say they generally side with the owners.

-And finally, in a much surer sign that this country is going to hell than the nomination of Donald Trump, 56% of fans approve of doing the wave at sporting events to 18% who disapprove.

Public Policy Polling surveyed 1,222 registered voters from May 6th to 9th. The margin of error is +/-3.2%. 80% of participants, selected through a list based sample, responded via the phone, while 20% of respondents who did not have landlines conducted the survey over the internet through an opt-in internet panel.
