QUESTIONS ABOUT THE POLL: TOM JENSEN 919-744-6312

Oil Spill Could Impact Midterm Elections

President Obama's job approval ratings have maintained, dropping only two points over the last month. 48% of voters like the job the President is doing right now, compared with 47% who say they disapprove of him. Obama's decline is most likely due to his handling of the oil spill. 47% of Americans disapprove of the President's response to the oil spill while only 38% give him good marks.

The President's slipping approval ratings could impact midterm elections. 48% of voters say they are less likely to vote for a candidate who is endorsed by the President, while only 33% say Obama's support would make them more inclined to give someone their vote.

Americans have a stronger opinion about off shore drilling than BP. Last month 55% of Americans reaffirmed their support for off shore drilling while only 30% said that they're now opposed to drilling off the American coast. This month, a majority of respondents reported that the oil spill has not affected where they buy gas. 57% say the spill has not affected their willingness to buy gas at BP.

This may be due to the perception that the average citizen cannot impact the business practices of BP, but can influence American law.

"The American public is clearly unhappy with response to the oil spill and anger will continue to mount as summer vacations are altered," said Dean Debnam President of Public Policy Polling. "Obama needs to raise his approval ratings quickly so he is not a liability, but an asset for his fellow Democrats during midterm elections."

PPP surveyed 650 American voters from June 4th - 7th. The survey's margin of error is +/-3.8%. Other factors, such as refusal to be interviewed and weighting, may introduce additional error that is more difficult to quantify.
