Obama, Romney tied in Ohio; Cain down three

Raleigh, N.C. – President Obama has declined in head-to-head matchups with leading Republican contenders Mitt Romney and Herman Cain since PPP last polled Ohio in August, yet they are the only two candidates who improve on John McCain’s five-point loss in this crucial battleground. After leading 45-43 previously, Obama has fallen into a tie with Romney at 46%, and he leads Cain 48-45, down five points from 47-39. The president tops Ron Paul by eight points, 48-40, and he leads Rick Perry and Michele Bachmann each by nine points (50-41 and 49-40, respectively), an improvement of five points against Perry and two versus Bachmann. Newt Gingrich trails by 11, 51-40.

Despite conservatives’ concerns about his views, Romney does the best job of uniting Republican voters, the chief reason he polls the best against the president. He is also one of three candidates to have double-digit leads among independents, but they are only 16% of the electorate, less than half Republicans’ share. Another key factor is that Romney is one of four Republicans to pull double-digit percentages of the plurality Democrats (along with Cain, Paul, and Bachmann), while Obama earns only 4% (against Romney) to 10% (versus Paul, Gingrich, and Bachmann) of the GOP.

43% approve and 52% disapprove of Obama’s job performance, essentially the same as the 44-52 found two months ago. His standing here is tied with North Carolina for 24th out of the 37 states in which he has been measured this year; no state he wants to win next year sees him worse. But Cain is the only GOP candidate who is more popular than the president, and in fact, the only one whose favorability rating is even a net positive. His 41-37 favorability spread is up 17 points from 22-35, and Romney’s 36-48 is up seven from 30-49.

“If the election was today Barack Obama would lose to Mitt Romney in Ohio,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “The undecideds are pretty much all unhappy with the President’s performance.”

PPP surveyed 581 Ohio voters from October 13th to 16th. The margin of error for the survey is +/-4.1%. This poll was not paid for or authorized by any campaign or political organization. PPP surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews. PPP is a Democratic polling company, but polling expert Nate Silver of the New York Times found that its surveys in 2010 actually exhibited a slight bias toward Republican candidates.
