Corbett down double digits to unknown Democrats

Raleigh, N.C. – Already probably the most endangered governor running for re-election next fall, Tom Corbett’s chances of winning have only slipped further since PPP last polled Pennsylvania in March, and he is now the most unpopular governor of 43 on which PPP has polled. Only a quarter of Pennsylvanians approve of their governor’s job performance, with almost two-thirds disapproving (24-65), a drop of 17 points on the margin from the previous poll (33-58).

Corbett now earns only 30-33% of the vote, and trails even the most unknown of seven potential Democratic opponents by 12 to 20 points. He lags Jack Wagner 50-30, John Hanger 51-32, Rob McCord 50-31, Allyson Schwartz 48-33, Katie McGinty 47-32, Ed Pawlowski 45-33, and Tom Wolf 44-32. In March, Corbett’s deficits were seven to 11 points against Hanger, McCord, Schwartz, and Wolf. He is doing an average of almost seven points worse now.

Wagner (45% name recognition) and Schwartz (42%) are the best-known Democrats, with the others between 25% and 31%. Because of his challengers’ anonymity, the race is clearly a referendum on Corbett himself. His unpopularity is enough to give the Democrats leads of 22 to 39 points with independents. They also earn an astonishing 23% to 27% of the GOP vote, with Corbett taking only 9% to 13% of Democrats.

GOP voters continue to give Corbett slightly negative ratings, indicating potential difficulty even getting out of the May primary. He seems to have a ceiling of 42%--he gets that number versus an unnamed “someone else” and against Congressmen Jim Gerlach and Mike Kelly, neither of whom has yet indicated he will run. Among Democrats, Schwartz is the nominal early favorite, at 21% to Wagner’s 17%, McCord’s 10%, McGinty’s 9%, Hanger’s 8%, with everyone else at 4% or less and 27% undecided.

“Tom Corbett’s situation just keeps getting worse when it was already pretty darn bad,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “It may be that the only chance Republicans have to hold onto this office next year is for him to step aside.”

PPP surveyed 693 Pennsylvania voters, including an oversample of 491 usual Republican primary voters and 436 Democratic primary voters, from November 22nd to 25th. The margin of error for the overall survey is +/- 3.7%, +/-4.4% for the GOP sample, and +/-4.7% for the Democratic portion. PPP’s surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
