Uphill battle for Cheney in Wyoming

Raleigh, N.C.- PPP's latest poll of Wyoming voters finds that Liz Cheney's Senate hopes in the state may be dead on arrival. She has just a 33% favorability rating across the state, and she trails both Senator Mike Enzi and Congresswoman Cynthia Lummis in head to head primary matchups. She is currently down 41% to 34% against Lummis, trailing with every ideological group besides "very conservative", which she leads by 5%. Things are even worse against Enzi, who more than doubles Cheney's total, 54% to 26%.

Should Cheney somehow emerge victorious in the primary, she may jeopardize the GOP's ability to hold the seat. The poll finds that she trails former Democratic Governor Dave Freudenthal 45% to 42%, the only situation in which a Democrat is even remotely close to winning. This is rather impressive for Freudenthal, who has a 55% favorable rating, as only 53% of respondents said they could ever vote for a Democrat for Senator.

Cheney's poor standing may be due to a common sentiment in the Cowboy State that Cheney doesn't belong. Only 31% of respondents consider Cheney to be a Wyomingite, including 36% of Republican primary voters, and 50% believe that she should be running in Virginia instead. This feeling does not hold for the rest of the family, though, as former VP Dick Cheney has a 50% favorability in the state.

"Liz Cheney's Senate prospects don't look very good," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "Wyoming voters see her as an outsider, and on top of that Mike Enzi is very popular in the state."

Meanwhile, in the race for Governor, Matt Mead holds a monumental 54 point lead over State Superintendent Cindy Hill in the Republican primary. In the general election Mead would lead Freudenthal 47-36 if the former Governor tried to make a return to office. Senator John Barrasso has a 64% approval rating, while President Obama has the support of just 27% of the state.

PPP surveyed 1,203 registered voters between July 19-21, 2013, including 780 Republican primary voters. The margin of error was +/- 2.8% statewide and +/- 3.5% for the primary. This poll was not authorized or paid for by any campaign or political organization. PPP's surveys are conducted through automated telephone interviews.
