Walker Trails Generic Democrat For Reelection

Raleigh, N.C. – PPP’s new Wisconsin poll finds that the race for Governor next year is likely to be competitive. Scott Walker is somewhat unpopular, with 43% of voters approving of the job he’s doing to 49% who disapprove. Walker trails a generic Democratic opponent for reelection 48-43. Of course generic Democrats sometimes poll stronger than who the nominee actually ends up being and it remains to be seen who from the crowded Democratic field emerges but the race at the least looks like it should be a toss up.

“Scott Walker’s been a political survivor in the past,” said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. “But 2018 is shaping up to be a completely different political landscape for Republicans from either 2010 or 2014 and he’s had sustained low approval numbers the last few years.”

The Foxconn deal isn’t doing much to enhance Walker’s political standing. 34% of voters say they support the deal to 41% who oppose it. Voters also question Walker’s motivations with the deal- just 38% think he’s doing it because it will be a good long term deal for the state, while 49% think he’s doing it just to try to help with his reelection next year.

There is also a sentiment among voters that in several key areas things in Wisconsin have not improved under Walker’s leadership. Just 17% think the quality of public schools has gotten better during Walker’s tenure to 48% who think they’ve gotten worse and 27% who believe they’ve stayed about the same. And only 20% think the quality of roads and highways has gotten better during the Walker administration, to 38% who think they’ve gotten worse, and 36% who think they’ve stayed about the same.

The other thing plaguing Walker right now is his ties to Donald Trump, who’s become unpopular in Wisconsin. Only 40% of voters approve of the job Trump is doing to 52% who disapprove. And 44% of voters in the state think Walker has been too supportive of Trump to 35% who think he’s been supportive about the right amount, and 13% who think he hasn’t been supportive enough.

Democrats lead the generic legislative ballot in the state 44-41. Of course the reality with the state’s gerrymandered district lines is that wouldn’t give them much of a chance at a majority in either chamber of the legislature. 44% of voters in the state think the legislative district lines are not fairly drawn, to only 25% who think they are fair. By a 63-16 spread voters think lines should be decided by an independent nonpartisan commission instead of the Legislature and Governor. The appetite for nonpartisan redistricting carries across the usual political divides- Clinton voters support it 79/6, but Trump voters do too 47/28.

On some other key state issues:

-59% of voters support Wisconsin expanding Medicaid, to only 21% who are opposed.

-79% of voters support allowing student loan borrowers to refinance their loans, to only 9% who are opposed.

-Just 12% of voters think family and medical leave benefits in Wisconsin should be reduced. A 41% plurality thinks they should be expanded and 36% think they're fine as is.

Paul Ryan's having the same issues with his popularity in Wisconsin that he is nationally. Only 35% of voters approve of the job he's doing to 51% who disapprove. He hasn't found a way to strike the right balance when it comes to supporting Donald Trump- 44% of voters think he's too supportive of Trump, 25% think he's not supportive enough of Trump, and only 23% think he's getting the balance right. He's getting it from both sides with 79% of Clinton voters thinking he's too supportive of Trump and 51% of Trump voters thinking he's not supportive enough of Trump.

"Paul Ryan's seen his national approval numbers crater over the course of this year and Wisconsin is no different," said Dean Debnam, President of Public Policy Polling. "There's virtually no esteem for him from the Democratic base and he's antagonized a lot of Republicans who like Trump better than him as well."

Wisconsin matches the rest of the country when it comes to a new popularity for the Affordable Care Act in the wake of efforts to repeal it this year. 44% of voters now say they support it, to just 38% who oppose it. Only 33% of voters think the best path forward on health care is to repeal the Affordable Care Act, while 57% think it's to keep it in place and pass a bipartisan bill to make fixes to it as necessary.

Republican tax reform efforts are also getting poor reviews from Wisconsin voters. Only 28% of voters say they support the Republicans in Congress' tax proposal, to 43% who say they are opposed to it. That's a reflection of the sentiment of a majority of voters- 51%- that the plan will mostly just help wealthy families. Only 23% think the primary beneficiary will be middle income families, and 9% think it will be low income families.

Public Policy Polling surveyed 1,116 registered voters on October 17th and 18th. The margin of error is +/- 2.9%. 80% of participants, selected through a list based sample, responded via the phone, while 20% of respondents who did not have landlines conducted the survey over the internet through an opt-in internet panel.

Q17 Now I am going to list some proposals people have made regarding strengthening State Supreme Courts and state judicial systems. For each one, please say whether you strongly favor, somewhat favor, somewhat oppose, or strongly oppose it. Here's the first one: The public has a right to know exactly which people, organizations, and businesses give money to judges' elections and what a judge's financial ties are. For transparency and accountability, states should require strict and prompt reporting of all campaign contributions and spending before Election Day, so the public can know which special interests are trying to influence the election and future court decisions. Q18 Here's the next one: Judges should not be the ones to decide whether or not they have a conflict of interest in a particular case. Instead, states should adopt clear and strong ethics rules and standards for when a judge must step aside, for example, if the judge has a business or financial interest in the outcome of the case, or if anyone involved in the case gave money to the judge's election campaign. Do you strongly favor, somewhat favor, somewhat oppose, or strongly oppose this proposal?
